

The cups are made of polypropylene. They are intended only for containing an antiseptic liquid or physiological serum.
They are not intended for containing implantable devices or injectable preparations.
The graduations do not have a measuring function; they only give an indication of volume.

